

EXPERIMENT 2

The chart below summarizes the results of the experiment 2. For this experiment, I have used a query histories varying from 100 to 1000 queries. I have ran 50 different queries of each type (varying on the number of abstract services), and the result is the average processing time for each type. The same queries were applied to the different histories.

The number of queries do not seem to affect the processing time.

